It took his trainers quite a little time to get him to move. He was greeted with terrific ap-plause. Henry of Navarre did not create any great enthusiasm when he cantered colors. Clifford came in for a burst of applause. The 25,000 persons that surged in and about the lawn and grand stand rose as one person to greet him.

The 2:37 class proved quite a surprise.
Belle Freeman won the first two heats in the slickest kind of style, and then, for some unknown reason, the betting switched against her. Nellie D. won the next two heats, and the judges, suspecting that all was not on the square, took Clark out from behind Belle Freeman and put Redmond in. The mare did not improve her position under the change, but on the contrary was distanced. The judges, however, were magnanimous enough to grant the mare her merit for the second place.
